PICTURE HISTORICAL LECTURE THIS EVENING

An Entertainment Dealing With Early History of Mormon Church.

A lecture dealing with the early history of the Mormon church and particularly that portion of the history which has to do with Joseph Smith, the founder of the church. Jas. W. LeSueur will give the lecture and explain the slides which have recently been sent here from Salt Lake. Today is the anniversary of the death of Joseph Smith and the exercises tonight which will be held in the opera house are in the nature of a commemorative as well as instructive description of the man who has had much to do with the western history of a good portion of the United States.

The following subjects will be treated and illustrated: The daily life of Joseph Smith. The first Mormon baptism. Angel Moroni showing the plates to Joseph Smith. The early years of Joseph Smith at Harmony, Pa. The translation of the golden plates wherein Joseph Smith was assisted by Martin Harris and Oliver Cowdrey. Joseph Smith preaching to the Indians, restoring to them the history of their forefathers. The Carthage, Mo., jail where Joseph Smith was assassinated. The assassination. This is an entertainment to which every one is welcome. The lecture will cover a considerable amount of history and much of it according to Bancroft's history of Utah.

BUCKLEY INFANT DEAD
The eight months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buckley, named Dorothy, died Friday night and was buried yesterday in the Mesa cemetery. The parents of the deceased came here only a few months ago from Ohio and later purchased the Jos. Standage place west of town.

RECEPTION OF NEWLYWEDS.
An informal reception was held at the home of Mrs. Maggie Hawkins at her home on East First avenue last night in honor of her daughter and son, Mr. and Mrs. Lide Pomeroy, who have just returned from their honeymoon. The invitation list included a great number of the friends and acquaintances of the young couple. A very enjoyable evening was spent, the young people were the recipients of many happy congratulations and good wishes.

PICTURE SHOW AT VANCE
The moving picture show at the Vance last night was quite well attended. The machine, which is a brand new Edison is giving the best of satisfaction, while the illustrated songs are a distinct feature of the entertainment.

MEXICAN WAS VICIOUS
A Mexican yesterday morning, who was considerably under the influence of liquor, started to make a vicious assault upon W. H. McLeod, the second hand man, but was prevented by bystanders. The man picked up a stone and was in the act of hurling it when an officer was called.

LANDMARK REMOVED
The old adobe which has been used by Joe Robertson as a warehouse and by C. L. Hawley as a carpenter shop for the past few years and which was in the natural course of the fire Friday evening and was torn down, is one of the old landmarks of the town. It was one of the first houses on the north side of the street and George and Wallace Macdonald were raised in it. It even preceded the old adobe which was torn down at the time the new Chandler block was erected.

LESSON GIVEN BY THE FIRE

One Thing Learned Need of Fire Limit

UNENFORCED ORDINANCE

Largely Responsible For the Destruction of Friday Night—Combustibles of All Kinds Must Be Kept Outside.

Out of the experience of Friday afternoon when one of the worst fires in the history of the town destroyed thousands of dollars worth of property and for a time threatened the entire north side of the main street, has been born the conviction that Mesa sooner or later must establish and maintain a fire limit. There is an ordinance defining the fire limit, but it is not iron clad and is broken more times than it is maintained. Hay ware houses and storage houses for such combustible materials have no reasonable excuse for seeking admission into the town districts. Gasoline, baled hay and loose hay and in fact practically everything usually found without the fire limits in the well regulated town can be found scattered all over Mesa, both within and without the fire limits.

Ernest Crisman, who is by far the heaviest loser is as yet undecided as to whether he will rebuild or not. It is not expected that he will rebuild immediately. The O. S. Stapley and company, who only a few weeks ago transferred all their hardware from the building in which the fire originated will not rebuild.

The loss to A. J. Peters will not amount to as much as was at first reported. It was impossible to get an authentic statement as to the amount of baled hay stored in the warehouse on the night of the fire, but since that time Mr. Peters stated that there were 290 tons on hay stored and that 290 tons was covered by insurance in the Home Insurance company.

With all the excitement attendant upon the blaze it is indeed strange that there were not more accidents. The fighters were without organization and there were a good many suggestions that if carried out would have probably run the property loss up into the hundreds thousands, but taken as a whole there never was a more conscientious set of workers trying to save the destruction of the property.

James Murphy, the fireman with the ditch digging machine which was brought into service to propel a force pump, was quite seriously injured about eight-thirty in the evening. It was determined early in the evening to install a pump and force the ditch water through the new high school hose onto the burning debris. The boiler with the ditch digging machine had to be steamed up which took some time. It was dark by the time sufficient steam had been raised to move the machine and in the excitement the men forgot that a telephone wire was low enough to catch the smokestack. Murphy happened to be under the stack as it was thrown back on its hinges, striking him on the head and fracturing the skull. He was rendered unconscious. The man was taken to the office of Dr. Nelson and his injuries dressed. He is resting easy at the present time and no serious complications are anticipated.

A Notable Game of Bridge
The expert on bridge whist, Mr. R. F. Foster, contributes an interesting bridge story to the July American Magazine. One of the exciting incidents of a bridge game is as follows:

"Accordingly, he cut into the next rubber and the points were raised to ten cents. Buskirk cut the U. S. Consul, who got the deal. Among the spectators there was quite a little buzz of excitement when the points were raised to ten cents, and the judge, who was looking on, drew his chair closer.

"Some of Mr. Buskirk's opening leads were certainly calculated to excite admiration if one may measure the merit of a beginning by a successful ending. The player on his right having made no trump, Mr. Buskirk promptly doubled, holding six clubs to the ace king, three spades to the jack and two small cards in each of the red suits.

"The dealer redoubled, holding four clubs to the queen nine, four spades to the queen jack ten and the ace king queen of both red suits. Mr. Buskirk hesitated a moment and then redoubled which made the well-dressed man behind him gasp. The dealer redoubled again, whereupon dummy protested and wished to avail himself of the rule permitting a player to object to doubling beyond a hundred points a trick. The dealer immediately offered to assume the responsibility and informed Mr. Buskirk that he could proceed if he wished to.
